A night to remember

Parents make sure grad night party is safe and sober

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

Graduation Day, 1956. A student is killed in a car accident just hours after receiving a diploma from Valencia High School.

The graduate's death shocks the community and prompts parents and local merchants to take action. They meet to discuss ways of preventing such tragedies in the future.

The solution not only caught on at the Placentia school the next year, but spread across the nation. It was in 1957 that Valencia held its first graduation night celebration, with 55 of the school's 80 graduates attending the sober festivities.

The doors of Valencia's gymnasium will open at 9 p.m. on June 20 for the 37th time. Inside, an estimated 300 graduating seniors will leave behind the rigors of high school and enter their own fantasy world.

Ticket prices cost $30 back in the fall and have jumped to $45 for last-minute students. A video of the event can be purchased for another $15. Partygoers must stay within the gym until 6:30 a.m., unless they have permission from parents to exit early.

The party is exclusively for graduating seniors. The other 1,400 Valencia students have to wait their turn, and most are expected to go, Co-Chairman Faith Goldman said.

"This is something that students look forward to for four years. It's an event, a way for them to really remember the friends and memories of high school," said Goldman, whose daughter is graduating and will attend the event. "It's the last hurrah."

The party features video games, caricature artists, psychics, tattoo painters, lip sync video, karaoke, casino games, movies and numerous

Police, fire spared budget ax

Minor cuts should not affect services

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

Police and fire services will remain virtually untouched as city officials continue to grapple with a $22.6 million budget.

City Council members and staff met Tuesday during a final study session before the budget is brought up during a public hearing next week.

Council members were relieved to hear that cuts would not affect those services.

"I'm relieved to see that things will be pretty much as usual when it comes to the service of police and fire," City Councilman Mike Maertzweiler said. "I don't want to be approving a budget that down the line would hurt residents."

Police and fire services are one bright spot in otherwise dismal budget outlook. City officials still are considering raising the city's 3 percent utility tax by 2 percent to help make up a $715,000 budget shortfall. Without the tax increase, the city may have to lay off as many as 25 employees.

Next year's police budget totals $5,484,769 — about $20,000 less than last year. Cuts were made for contractual services and costs to operate the department's mobile equipment, according to Police Chief Manuel Ortega.

The budget for fire services, which are contracted from the county, actually went up by an estimated $46,000. This was due to preliminary work for 15 cities in Orange County to separate from the county and launch their own fire districts, according to a city official.

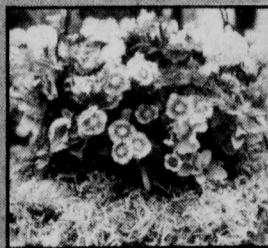

The Police Officers Association also has announced that it will help ease this year's budget crunch by giving up a scheduled raise and benefits hike.

CRIME

Teens critically hurt in stabbings

By Marc S. Posner
North County News

Two Fullerton brothers were in critical condition with stab wounds Monday night and two Placentia youths were in jail following an afternoon altercation near the border of the two cities.

The Fullerton residents, ages 17 and 19, were at UCI Medical Center in Orange, each suffering multiple stab wounds, police said.

The 17-year-old underwent surgery to close puncture wounds to his abdomen, according to police and hospital officials. His older brother, Juan Hernandez, had been stabbed in the back, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Neither appeared to be gang members, and it wasn't clear what lead to the 1:45 p.m. attack, police said.

Fullerton and Placentia police coordinated a search for three to four suspects and Spanish-speaking officers went door-to-door looking for witnesses in the densely populated area dominated by apartments.

Two suspects, ages 16 and 17, were arrested less than two hours after the stabbing.

Both youths were being held in Orange County Juvenile Hall for suspicion of attempted murder, Fullerton police Sgt. Joe Klein said. Their names were withheld because of their ages. A third person was being sought for questioning, he said.

The victims and a friend, who escaped injury, had been repairing a car in the 3100 block of Garnet Lane when they were attacked by the three or four suspected Placentia gang members.

The suspects fled the area flashing gang signs and yelling gang slogans, Klein said.

The Fullerton neighborhood where the stabbings occurred has been targeted by the city for rehabilitation under its Operation Cleanup program, which combines community services and police intervention.

BUDGET

Residents, city divided on utility tax hike

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

The mere suggestion of raising the utility tax is enough to make stomachs turn for some residents.

The tax hike is one of two options provided to the City Council as a way to balance the city's $11.6 million general fund budget. The only other alternative offered by city staff is to eliminate 25 positions.

It's a decision that City Council members aren't eager to make, especially since lengthy public hearings on the proposal are expected.

"This is going to make a lot of people unhappy, the businesses are going to be unhappy," said Mike Staley, an accountant who lost his bid for a City Council seat last November.

Staley is one of those residents taking a hard look at the budget. He's concerned the proposed 2 percent utility tax increase isn't a legitimate way to avoid 25 layoffs at City Hall.

"Right off the bat we aren't going to have to lay off that many people," he said. "If you can have a 2 percent reduction in salaries, that would rough out to $180,000. A 10 percent reduction and we wouldn't have to layoff anybody or raise taxes. Maybe give them a 4 percent cut and raise taxes by 1 percent."

"This is so drastic, tax or layoffs. There has to be room for compromise," he said.

The utility tax hike — which would be added to cable, telephone, gas and electricity bills — would raise an estimated $866,000. This would help cover the expected loss of $715,000 in city revenues to the state.

The increase must be approved by the City Council, which has scheduled a public hearing on the issue June 15.

Mayor Maria Moreno, like the rest of the City Council, said she is collecting as much information from residents and business leaders as possible before the hearings. She also is leery of enacting such a tax increase.

"I want us to exhaust all our options before taxing the residents," Moreno said. "There has to be other things we can take a serious look at as a way to save money before raising a utility tax."

This is exactly what activists such as Lucy Grismer have been clamoring about.

Grismer, who was around when the City Council first imposed a utility tax in the early 1970s, believes the city needs to first trim the fat in other forms.

She cites budget items such as car phones, free meals before City Council meetings, coffee deliveries and an order to purchase a new photocopier as unneeded expenses.

STORM

Weather washes out fair, damages buildings

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

The only thing running down the streets of Old Town Placentia last weekend was rain.

This wasn't exactly what organizers of the 4th annual Festival of Arts and Cultures Street Faire pictured for the day the event was to be held. The annual event was postponed after a surprise, record-breaking storm moved in Saturday to drench most of the area.

City officials are now in the process of rebooking performers such as Latin jazz musician Poncho Sanchez and reorganizing the more than 70 booths scheduled for the event.

Other events that were to be held along Bradford Avenue and Center Street included chalk art and a classic car show.

"We were all disappointed that the months of planning was ruined by rain," Recreation Superintendent Steve Pischel said. "This is a setback, but the show must go on."

The nearly 1.2 inches of rain weren't the only surprises to hit the area due to the storm.

The force of the storm gave workers at the Placentia-Yorba Linda YMCA and the First Church of Christ Scientists something unexpected.

Tiles off both the buildings — located on Lemon Street in Yorba Linda — were knocked loose by the storm.

Rain soaked carpeting, wood floors, and paperwork, YMCA Executive Director Frank Jarmacz said. The YMCA office is used to keep membership files and run programs held at different sites in the two cities, he said.

"It really stinks in here, I can tell you that much," said Jarmacz, who did not lose any valuable paperwork during the mishap. "I guess the tiles for both these buildings were about ready to give in. Who knew we'd have a storm in June?"

Car wash decision appealed

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

Residents claim they aren't washed up yet in a fight to stop a car wash from being built in their neighborhood.

Residents near the Placentia-Yorba Linda border intend to contest the Planning Commission's approval of the project.

Those opposed filed papers June 3 to appeal the decision to the City Council.

"We are not going to give up this fight," said Warren Parchan, a nearby resident who is also a developer. "We feel we will be able to compile enough evidence to persuade the City Council to see our point of view that this is not the proper site nor the proper application for a residential area."

The Planning Commission on May 25 approved a proposal by developer Greg Lowther to build a car wash near Imperial Highway and Rose Drive. Residents of Golden Avenue united to oppose the project, which they believe isn't appropriate for the area.

Commissioners approved the project 5-0 after nearly two hours of public testimony. Those who spoke against the development said studies conducted were inaccurate and that children would be in danger from increased traffic.

Lowther convinced the commission that technology to be used at the business wouldn't impact the surrounding area. He also promised to keep trips by gasoline trucks at a minimum to not disrupt the traffic flow in the area.

"I don't know what else I can do," Lowther said. "The commission agreed with me. This is going to be first-rate and I just want to be good neighbors once this project is built."

The City Council is scheduled to

Losing weight reduces risks

Losing weight can help reduce major health risks such as hypertension, cardiovascular disease and many forms of cancer. In addition, obtaining a healthy body weight increases self-esteem and improves daily energy levels. Therefore, a weight loss program is a positive program.

The B & B diet cookies/cakes program works well. Jack Myers, owner of B and B Pharmacy in Yorba Linda, has lost 30 pounds in three months, simultaneously experiencing a 40 point drop in his cholesterol level (through the cookie diet and moderate exercise).

He reports customers are losing four to ten pounds in the first week and two to three pounds a week thereafter.

B and B Pharmacy is providing a healthy, convenient and delicious meal replacement for weight loss and management. The B & B diet cookies/cakes are nutritionally sound. In addition, they are full of fiber and sweetened naturally with fructose. They provide a safe, great tasting meal that can be taken anywhere and they do not require refrigeration or additional preparation. The cookies/cakes are available in 12 flavors.

Myers says the B & B program is a good way to help people be their healthiest selves.

Police Department seeks volunteers

By Lisa O'Neill
North County News

Dressed in white shirts and navy blue skirts or slacks, volunteers will soon be assisting the Placentia police in duties ranging from fingerprinting to registering bicycles.

The city has implemented a Volunteers in Police Program, designed to draw upon the experience of Placentia residents.

Between 40 and 50 potential volunteers attended an orientation meeting in May. A core team of 10 people will be selected to work and applications are still coming back to the department.

All volunteers will be required to attend periodically scheduled training sessions and complete about 20 hours of training. Volunteers will work four hours a week and will work only in the confines of the department.

The volunteer program is a way of expanding police services, Capt. Daryl Thomann said. The volunteer program will allow the department to broaden the hours of services, such as fingerprinting, which is now only offered on Wednesday evenings and Saturdays, he said.

"(The program) will free up some of the staff ... We're not looking to utilize this to take over any existing jobs or jobs lost to attrition," Thomann said.

Gary Sprague, personnel and training manager, said he believes this is the first time that the Placentia Police Department has tried this kind of program.

The San Clemente and Fountain Valley police departments have similar volunteer programs, which utilize the skills of senior citizens.

Those interested in applying for a volunteer position can pick up an application at the Placentia Police Department. Once a written application is turned in, an oral interview will be conducted. Candidates who pass the oral phase will then be subject to a background check.

Tagger hotline called a success

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

It might become the school district's most effective weapon in its battle with graffiti taggers.

It's not a new kind of paint that deters deliberate markings left behind by hit-and-run youths. The newest addition to the arsenal against such vandalism won't even leave the Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District main office.

The latest addition in the fight against graffiti is a simple answering machine.

The idea came from Superintendent Jim Fleming.

"I felt we needed to do something," said Fleming, who keeps the machine just outside his office. "We need to take a number of steps to combat graffiti, drugs, weapons and violence. More steps need to be taken and this is one of them."

Letters were sent last week to parents informing them of the hotline. Four calls immediately followed.

The number is expected to rise as more parents become aware of the hotline, Fleming said.

Marcia Clarke was one of the callers.

It was after the Memorial Day weekend when the Anaheim resident stumbled across a case of vandalism at Glenview Elementary School. Her two children, who attend the school, found it while riding bikes near the campus.

A ramp and railing that lead to a portable classroom at the back of the campus had been torn down. Clarke, who lives across from the school, remembered the number.

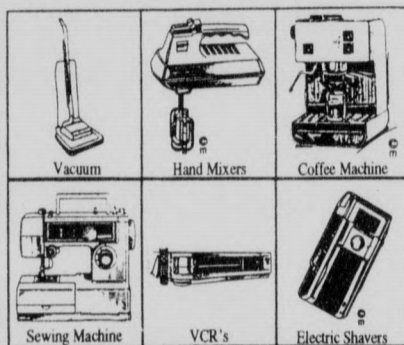

"If the community isn't accountable to each other, then we have problems. We just keep our eyes open," said Clarke, who has lived in Placentia and attended local schools. "We go for walks near the

City, Kraemer deal at standstill

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

During the city's pioneer days, Samuel Kraemer was a man known for his razor-sharp real estate and business deals.

It was his business savvy that helped make the Kraemer family one of the largest landowners in north Orange County during the early 1900s.

And, nearly 60 years after his death, Kraemer still has a controlling hand in modern-day land deals.

Negotiations between City Hall and a developer concerning property near the Alta Vista Country Club are stalled because of deeds Kraemer helped draw up.

The $3.5-million land deal is being held back because Kraemer, who once owned the land before it was given to the city, included in the agreement a provision that family members always would retain the mineral rights on the property.

"Now, we have the process of getting in touch with everyone listed as an heir in the Kraemer family," City Attorney Joyce Rosenthal said. "This is not an easy task. There are dozens."

Attorneys for both sides are working on solving the legal details, Rosenthal said. The lawyer for the Kraemer family did not return telephone calls for comment.

City officials have been looking forward to the sale of the 7.6-acre site in the center of the golf course as a way to raise money. The Buena Park-based development firm of Sponberg, Kirkland and Associates already has paid a non-refundable $357,000 down payment to build on the land.

The developer intends to build 31 luxury homes costing an estimated $500,000 each, City Administrator Bob D'Amato said. The city will receive the remainder of the $3.5 million as each of the homes are sold. Ground could be broken before the end of the year, he said.

City Council members have been eyeing the land sale for several months as a way to help ease this year's budget crisis. Mayor Maria Moreno, who brought the idea up at a budget study session, believes the money will come in handy.

"Even if we don't get all the money now, this is something we should keep in mind for the long run," Moreno said. "This is a lot of money we're talking here. These are going to be some nice homes."

Teens sought for recycle program

By Lisa O'Neill
North County News

The city is looking for some environmentally minded teen-agers to help promote recycling.

"Recycle Placentia Teen Team" is a group of junior and senior high school students who will help Placentia citizens reduce trash through recycling education.

Organized by the city, the "Teen

Team" will consist of six volunteers.

"Basically it's a program to get some of our teen-agers involved in our recycling programs," said Marla Anderson, the city's environmental coordinator.

The group will do school presentations to younger students and at day camps, Anderson said.

The young recyclers also will help with recycling booths at community events, such as the Cultural Arts and Street Fair, and will meet on a monthly basis with Anderson and her staff.

Volunteers will be working on an as-needed basis and will probably work between 100 and 120 hours during the year.

The application deadline is June 16 at 5:30 p.m. Call 993-8117 or pick one up at City Hall.

SCHOOL BOARD

Boundary changes unanimously OKd

By Bruce Bailey
North County News

Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District trustees on Tuesday unanimously approved changing the attendance boundaries of Brookhaven, Glenview, Tynes, Mabel Paine, Morse, Rio Vista and Linda Vista elementary schools.

Trustees also unanimously agreed to allow students a one-time choice to remain where they are.

The boundary changes include:

- Transferring the western portion of Brookhaven's non-contiguous southern area to Tynes and Van Buren;
- Transferring the eastern portion of Brookhaven's non-contiguous area to Linda Vista and Glenview;
- Transferring a portion of Glenview's area to Tynes;
- Transferring a portion of Tynes' area to Rio Vista;
- Transferring a portion of Mabel Paine's area to Fairmont; and

■ Transferring a portion of Morse's area to Tynes.

Superintendent James Fleming said all changes become effective in September.

Fleming also said these changes are in keeping with the district's policy on neighborhood schools and students won't drive past one school to get to another.

Trustee Jerry Brakebill said the time for notifying parents of these changes seemed short.

But Mike Bailey, the district's facilities planning director, said the boundary changes adopted three years ago were discussed for only three or four meetings before they were adopted.

Trustee Craig Olson said while the process isn't perfect, "I concluded these boundary changes are the right decision."

Mindy Glatstein, co-chairwoman of Respect and Protect Public Schools, a political action committee formed to oppose the changes, said she is disappointed and will consider options.

SNAPPING THE WHIP

Politics is a muddy game, but somebody has to play

Some of us can remember the days when kids made mud pies as part of their growing up. It included a smidgeon of work. Ingredients for the pies needed to be mixed, you see. After carefully loosening some soil in the backyard, just enough water was added for the consistency needed to make perfect mud pies.

If only some of us could be kids again. We would have been in mud-pie heaven when a pre-election debate between Los Angeles mayoral candidates Michael Woo and Richard Riordan was held in late May. So much mutual mud-slinging.

The oral slugfest became so bad that nearly all the 500 folks in the audience walked out, leaving the two candidates dueling over who could hurl mud the furthest.

Their behavior is typical of politicians. They speak with empty words. Little of substance rarely passes through their lips. They speak with forked tongues (i.e., Bill Clinton's promise to be a champion for the middle class).

Yet, citizens continue to treat those who ooze with this childish behavior with the same respect they treat VIPs. Why? Once elected, they don't deliver on their campaign promises. They pass silly laws and regulations, give subsidies to special interests and tax citizens to the poor house.

When people get together over a cup of coffee and some ham and eggs at a local restaurant, the conversation often gets around to the weather — and politics. Nothing can be done about the weather. Nor politicians — until we can find what makes them tick. And who they really represent.

The answers might lie, in part, by what one old-time politician in the East was overheard saying as he waited to give a speech at a social gathering. Asked if he ever tired of the political dinner circuit, the lawmaker remarked that it got a little boring now and then, but hey, I show up, tell the folks what they want to hear, tell a few jokes for laughs and bask in the applause.

This man, a political pro, was a member of the Pennsylvania State Legislature. He died in 1967. His funeral was held in an ornate and historical church and was attended by an estimated 200 constituents who arrived in Cadillacs, Lincolns and other luxurious conveyances. Noticeably missing from the crowded parking lot were the Chevrolets, Fords and Plymouths associated with common folks.

His penchant for associating with the elite was well-known.

Placing blame for school fiscal problems

Recently, there have been several letters in the Placentia News-Times about school closures. A letter from Janice Wagner places the blame for all the fiscal problems in the district on the schools located in the north Placentia area. This is simply not true. At the May 25 school board meeting, Assistant Superintendent Stallings said that the annual savings generated when schools are closed is about $250,000. It is unlikely that closing even one school could make up the $7 million reduction in the emergency fund. At $250,000 per year, it would take 28 years to replenish the fund.

The fund is being depleted because the fiscal situation in the district is common to all school districts in California. The tax base is shrinking, jobs are being lost and companies are moving out of state. Revenues are declining and expenses are increasing. Enrollments, particularly in Southern California, are increasing to the influx of immigrants.

Many parents in north Placentia located there specifically because of the schools. The schools are smaller, there is excellent interaction with other students and classes, and parental involvement is strong. Our schools were built many years ago and never were

GRADUATION

The Class of 1993 graduates this week.

QUESTION: What is your fondest memory of high school

Asked at El Dorado High School.

Amy Renee Lauder
"Probably the innertube water polo game last Friday when I got kicked out of the game for getting in a fight."

Claudine Francois
"My vocal ensemble concerts, especially the one we gave last night was our final concert. It was really fun."

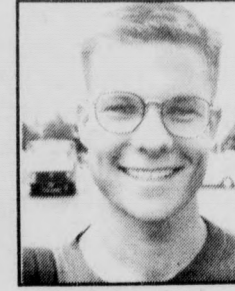

Wendy Welch
"My fondest memory is going to my first dance and being a part of choir this year with Mr. Peterson."

Rebecca Simpson
"I guess it was all the friends I met; going to Hawaii with the band. Having fun."

Marie Rogers
"My fondest memory of high school is meeting the love of my life."

Chris Remala
"The end of basketball and the conditioning that went with it. It was hard work."

TAX:

FROM 3

"We've got to trim the fat, and that means trim the fat," said Grismer, who has been active in Placentia schools and politics for 20 years. "They need to let us know that they are giving up everything and anything before taxing us — even if they are small things."

City Administrator Bob D'Amato, who helped put together the 1993-94 budget, believes residents are willing to pitch in. He believes the city already has given up enough, including 14,000 hours worth of part-time help.

"When somebody says we need to trim the fat, I don't quite understand. We didn't have any fat to begin with. This is a small city, and we've always worked off much less than other cities our size," D'Amato said.

"I don't believe the residents would want to see us cut services. An additional dollar or two is not going to be a problem with them."

'Misconceptions' clarified

We would like to clarify some misconceptions put forth in your article of May 27. Over the past several weeks we have made more than a "few" telephone calls to the board of education. Each board member has met with us in individual homes, for a minimum of one and one-half hours and with groups as large as 50 people. The purpose of these meetings was to share our concerns with them in a setting where open discussion is welcomed.

Mr. Kielty met with us for more than four hours. During this time he could have expressed his dissatisfaction with how he perceived we treated Dr. Fleming and we could have responded. It is both irresponsible and cowardly to express his concerns in a public meeting where there was no opportunity for rebuttal. Dr. Fleming is a grown man in a powerful position. We believe he is capable of taking care of himself without Mr. Kielty's misguided help.

We believe that both students and parents have deep feelings for their schools. No, Mrs. Wagner, and Mr. Kielty, our schools are not just bricks and mortar. If your schools are, we pity you.

Mindy Glatstein
Dana McKenna

Mindy Glatstein and Dana McKenna are chairwomen of RAPPs, an organization involved in a study of school boundary reorganization in the Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District.

She enjoys News-Times

I wanted to let you know that I really enjoy the Placentia News-Times. It is a wholesome newspaper that is very informative and I find myself now looking forward to receiving it.

This newspaper makes you feel like you just got a letter from home. I hope you will continue to concentrate on the same types of subjects and continue in reporting the fresh, family stories that you seem to have. Even if it is about taggers or gangs or such, the stories make you feel like you are a part of the situation and that you want to extend a hand to help the community.

It is well done and I just wanted to say thank you. Keep up the good work.

intended to house 900 to 1,000 students. Our students continue to achieve higher than average grades on state tests, and a high percentage continue to college. The education foundation they received in the north Placentia schools is the primary reason for the achievements. That is what I call success, not blame. The neighborhood school concept works.

I wish there was an easy solution to the fiscal problems, but there isn't. I think it is grossly unfair to single out a geographical section in this district and blame it for all the economic wrongs. I suggest that the residents in Yorba Linda vote on a bond issue to build new schools. It should be specifically for Yorba Linda. The people in Placentia don't need to pay again. We have paid once. We don't want to be blamed for anything else.

Richard Wiedemann

SNAPPING :

FROM 10

This is where his political survival lay. This survival awareness, we suppose, is typical for many politicians.

Which might mean that the only way citizens can gain control over the politicians is through an aggressive grassroots uprising among the non-elitists and the non-socializers. Politics is a difficult beast to tame. Domestication of the animal, perhaps lies, in continued well-placed snaps of the whip to its backside. Anyone want to man the whip?

Former Miss Placentia is helping out

Placentia people around town: Hmmm, isn't that voice familiar? Sure is. It's Debbie Ramirez, former Miss Placentia, answering Chamber phones, giving out information and answering questions in her own vivacious style. She just graduated from Chapman University with a bachelor of fine arts in broadcast journalism and is "holding down the fort" until the Chamber of Commerce board selects a replacement for Doris Lindsey. Chess tournament gets kids moving

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

Dozens of children sat face-to-face over checkered boards at the Placentia Boys Club on Saturday. Not one yelled the phrase "king me."

An estimated 35 children from around Los Angeles and Orange County pushed aside the multi-colored checkers on Saturday and went with chess pieces. The club and an Orange County-based chess organization hosted the instructional tournament for enthusiasts ranging from kindergarten to eighth grade.

This is the 10th year that the Chess for Juniors organization has hosted the event in Placentia. The tournament is designed to teach the game to children who are used to using the board to just play checkers.

"Checkers is fun, but chess teaches logic and critical thinking," said Robert Snyder, who started the non-profit chess club in the early 1980s. "This is a game where all kids can learn to play, and be good at it."

Three Orange County chess players took home awards during the competition. Steven Sun of Cypress took second place in the K-3 division, Eric Bodenhole of Laguna Hills took third place in the seventh grade division and Michael Steward of Westminster took second place in fourth-sixth division.

Clarke could have left an anonymous tip on the answering machine, but chose to leave her name in case administrators had questions for her.

This is exactly the kind of attitude district officials want to see. In the first half of the 1993-94 school year, vandals caused more than $180,000 in damage to district property.

"If more people keep their eyes open for what's going on and what their children are doing, then we might not have things like this," Clarke said.

"I'm not trying to save the world all by myself, but everyone's little input adds to the big picture" he said.

Annual crusade set for July at Anaheim Stadium

Greg Laurie, pastor of Harvest Christian Fellowship, announced that he will conduct an evangelistic crusade in Orange County this summer, as he has for the past three years. This non-denominational event will be held July 23-25 at Anaheim Stadium.

More than 500 Southern California churches are expected to participate. The contemporary approach of these events attracts churches of various denominations and continues to appeal to younger audiences than have traditionally attended such gatherings, according to Laurie.

"I believe that we have a simple message that can help people change their lives for good, both for the better, and permanently. This is the message we will be presenting in Orange County," Laurie said.

On July 24 there will be a Children's Crusade at 11 a.m. The nightly crusades begin at 7:30 p.m. and are free and open to the public.

always in charge of after-dinner cleanup (that's pots, pans and dishes). His friends and neighbors say he is "a great neighbor." Being neighborly and dependable is a great combination. We also salute Vern Rold!

Happy birthday to Jerry Kern, Cindi Meyer, Sue D'Amato, and Maxine Brown who had a two for one month — birthday and wedding anniversary. Word has it that Al Rizzo, Mr. Dapper, Mr. GQ, etc., celebrated a birthday. No one, not even Al, is telling the number but you can bet no matter what the number he won't be slowing down.

Splashing down the lanes: STOP swimmers Riana Brown gets "congrats" for her "AAA" in the "Back" and Emily Van Eck, who had time drops in all her recent AAA Meet swims. Ray Brown, no relation to Maxine, (she's married to "Mr. Around Town" Bill Brown), asks interested swimmers to call 579-1723 for STOP information.

A big thank you goes to Matt Pineda and Henry Castro, two of my favorite Public Works persons, for all their help with the annual Easter Egg-citement event, making it a success.

Sierra Vista School scoops: The PTA bestowed honorary service awards on Kelly Muriello and Lydia Lepeyrolerie during the school's PTA Founder's Day program. The awards were presented by Student Council officers Kelly Thompson and Lisa Lapeyrolerie. Honorary Service Awards are given to individuals for special recognition of outstanding service to children and youth at school and in the community.

Traveling around: George and Mary Ziegler traveled to Yosemite in their motor home. They made plans well in advance so they got in and had a wonderful time.

Noted golfer P.D. James did pretty well at a recent tourney in El Toro. Hear he won two "closest to the pin" contests.

More "out on the links" news: Valencia High School varsity golf players placed fifth at the Tribute to Youth Golf Tournament in early April. Team members included: Cody Neptune, Kyle Kersten, John Lee and James Wooley. Now, if there was such a thing as a five-some in golf, I think P.D. James and the Valencia "Four" should get together!

Spotted lunching at the Marriott the other day: Aurora Gomez, along with pals, Erlinda Ramirez, Rosa De La Torre, Linda Gonzales and Armando Ramirez. They are all very active in CSUF's Hispanic Faculty and Staff Association. The word is that they are planning ways to raise even more money for scholarships. Good for them!

Madame Helena Modjeska, world famous Polish actress, is coming to Placentia — well, sort of. Opal Kissinger will give her one-woman performance with reminiscences of the actress's childhood in Poland, her worldwide stage career, and her life during the 1800s in Orange County. The 6:30 p.m. performance on June 17 at Bradford House is sponsored by Placentia Founder's Society, according to Jeanne Scherr, PFS member, and promises to be quite an interesting evening.

Congratulations and a pat on the back to Bernardo Yorba's Students of the Month, Ryan Geiger, Felicia Cuesta and Lisa Schoner.

I want to thank Clairee Tynes, Connie Underhill and Al Shkoler for saying "yes" when asked if they would "guest write" columns while I was away. As one friend who had read the columns commented, "You better call your editor. I'm not sure you have a job!" Your columns were interesting, entertaining and thought-provoking and your comments are always welcome. Thank you again!

other activities that relate to this year's theme. This year, students were already told that it would be a Western theme — but not much more than that.

The entertainment budget alone is $10,000 this year, Goldman said.

Like the Tournament of Roses Parade, planning for the event begins about a year in advance, with students and parents suggesting ideas and the PTA committee choosing the actual theme.

Professional artists donated their time to draw the murals around the gym. About 150 Orange County merchants donated nearly 300 door prizes. As always, Ralphs grocery chain will donate food while the American Legion and Knights of Columbus will provide the volunteer workers.

The job of converting the gym into a miniature version of a theme park began in May, with dozens of parents volunteering four hours each weeknight after work.

The end result will be a night to remember, Goldman said.

"We have a reputation for being the first, and the best," she said. "This year will be no exception. We've got some surprises that is going to make this one the most memorable yet."

decide the matter at its July 20 meeting.

Parchan said he intends to convince the City Council that commissioners weren't sympathetic to neighbors and that noise studies were wrong. He also intends to point out how the increase in traffic will be dangerous to children who walk to school near the site.

Lowther commissioned a study that showed up to 250 vehicles would go to the car wash per day, averaging about 25 per hour. It also showed that noise levels would be similar to those on Golden Street.

"The residents around the area are really annoyed now," Parchan said. "They realize that the commissioners have no sympathy at all for what the people are feeling. We aren't going away."

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

SHELL GAME

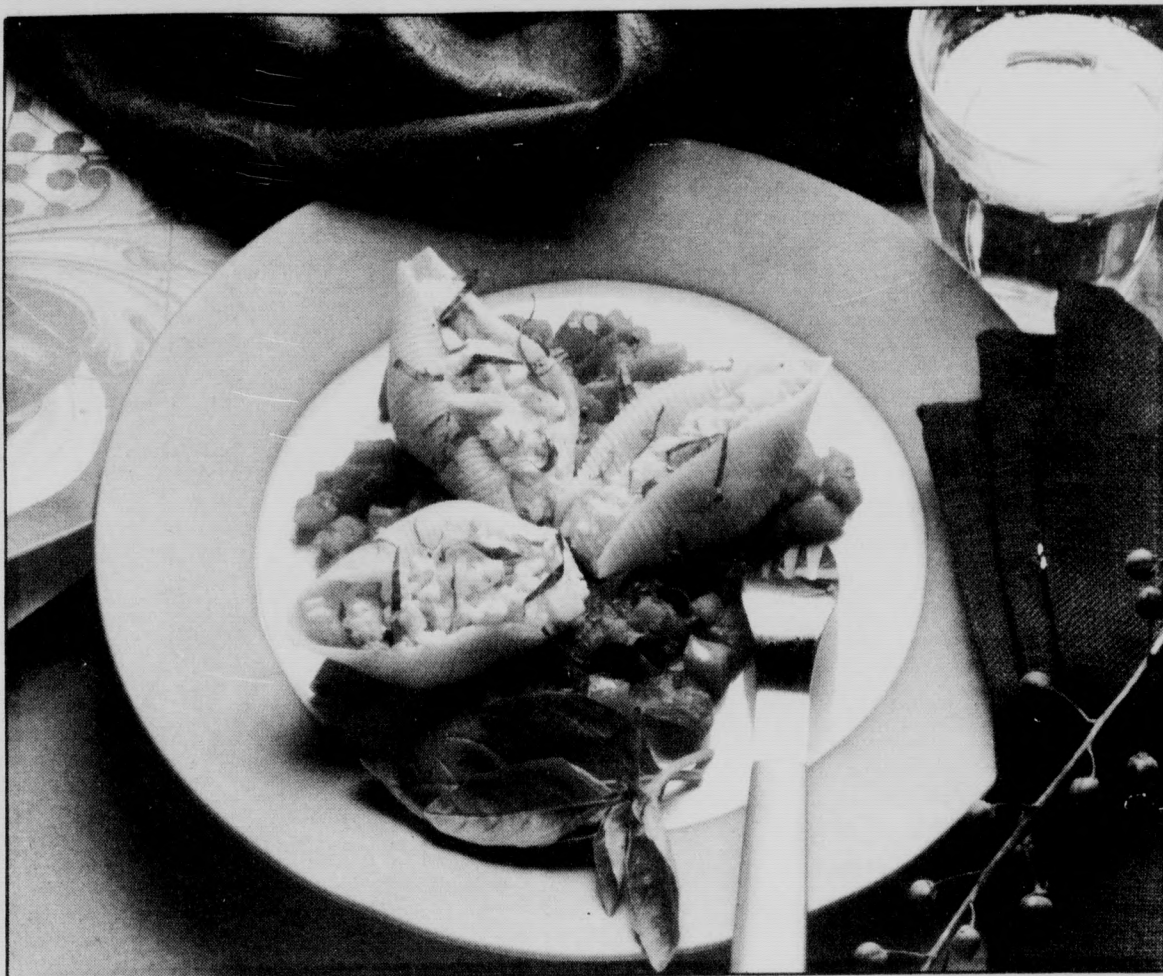

Take a chance with different ideas for fillings

Even favorite recipes are worthless if you don't have the right ingredients or if you just don't feel like making the same thing one more time. Savory Pasta Shells is an adaptable dish that can change to suit your mood, or what's in your refrigerator.

The pasta shells are stuffed with a cottage cheese-based filling prepared with garlic, onions, basil and meat or seafood. Cooked crab is used in this recipe, although other ingredients can be substituted. Shrimp, tuna, chicken and even ham combined with cottage cheese and seasonings make a delicious stuffing for the pasta shells.

The pasta shells are cooked al dente, then filled and baked for 20 minutes. Serve two to three shells on a bed of Warm Tomato Salsa.

Savory Pasta Shells go well with crisp vegetables or a simple salad, making them a dieter's delight.

These Savory Pasta Shells are stuffed with cottage cheese and crab, but there are many other combinations that would be equally good. Let your imagination run.

SAVORY PASTA SHELLS WITH CREAMY FILLING

Pasta shells:

- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 small garlic clove, minced
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 cups low- or nonfat cottage cheese
- ¼ cup white wine
- 2 tablespoons chopped basil
- 1 cup cooked crab
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 12 jumbo pasta shells, cooked

Saute onion and garlic in butter until tender, stir in cottage cheese, wine, basil, crab and seasonings. Spoon two or three tablespoons of cottage cheese mixture into each shell. Bake for 20 minutes at 350 degrees and serve with Warm Tomato Salsa.

SALSA

- 2 cups diced roma tomatoes

- 1 small garlic clove, minced
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- ½ cup wine
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 3 tablespoons chopped basil

Saute tomatoes and garlic in oil about 5 minutes; add wine and continue cooking over low heat until most liquid has evaporated. Season to taste; add basil.

Serve two or three pasta shells on bed of salsa sprinkled with shreds of basil, if desired. Serves 4 to 6.

THOUGHT FOR FOOD

Dreyer's wants your ideas for ice cream flavors

For the first time in Dreyer's Grand Ice Cream's 65 years of business, the company is looking to ice cream lovers to come up with new ice cream flavor ideas.

This is the chance ice cream spooners have been waiting for — is it "Bavarian Chocolate Torte" (chocolate coconut ice cream with brownie fudge pieces, walnuts and a caramel/fudge swirl) you're hankering for? Or, what about "Wild Berry Treasure" (raspberry ice cream with chocolate chunks and a swirl of blackberry and blueberry jam) that could have your mouth watering?

Here comes the fun — the call is out for ice cream lovers to submit a flavor idea they think is marketable and has the potential to become a "star."

Dreyer's will select the 15 best flavor submissions based on the potential marketability and creativity of the flavor. Each of the 15 flavor finalists will be invited to the Dreyer's Research and Development lab in the San Francisco Bay Area on Oct. 8. Once they have arrived, the flavor inventors will actually create their own "Fantasy Flavor" and compete in a taste-off to determine the tastiest treat.

The 15 selected "Fantasy Flavor" inventors will also be treated to a year's supply of ice cream, awarded in gift certificates. And — if Dreyer's ends up marketing one or more of the 15 flavors during 1993 or 1994, the inventor(s) of the flavor(s) will receive $1,000 and their names on the ice cream's package.

"Fantasy Flavor entries should be in the Dreyer's premium style and must 1) include a description of the flavor, listing the added ingredients, and 2) have a suggested name. The inventor's name, address and telephone number should be noted with each flavor idea. Children 12 and under should indicate their age to be considered for a special children's category. Send entries to Fantasy Flavor Search, Dreyer's Grand Ice Cream, 5929 College Ave., Oakland, 94618. All flavor ideas must be postmarked by Aug. 13.

Careful use of barbecue cuts carcinogens

Does summer find you using the barbecue grill every time you cook? If so, you're not alone. But what does all this barbecuing mean to your health?

You may have heard concerns relating to potential cancer risks from grilling. When fat from meat drips onto hot charcoal or rocks in a gas or electric grill, a carcinogen (a substance that initiates the development of cancer) is formed; the smoke that rises up from the coals contains this substance and it is deposited on the cooking meat. In addition, charring (blackening) meat or fish produces very strong carcinogens.

All this does not mean you need to give up your grill. But if you barbecue frequently, it may be important to change how you cook out.

Choose lean meats, which offer the advantage of less fat dripping, and thus less carcinogen formation. Trim off meat's outside fat before cooking. And since the risks are mainly from meats being cooked (as opposed to vegetables), keep meat portions modest. This is just part of good nutrition, anyway, in order to avoid excess fat and protein.

Cook the meat until it is done without charring it. Adjust the grill height and temperature so that the meat can be cooked without burning. Remove any charred material that does form on the food.

Low-fat barbecue foods abound. Chicken is popular. Although some people complain that chicken tends to dry out when the skin is removed to keep fat content low, this usually does not happen if you cook chicken just until it is done without overcooking, and if flame temperature and grill height are correctly adjusted.

Other delicious, lean grilling favorites include London Broil (marinate a lean cut of beef like top round in some vinegar and herbs first), loin pork chops, or firm-fleshed, thick-cut fish "steaks." Skewered kabobs can be assembled from lean meats, poultry, fish or shellfish.

Kabobs can be made with lots of fresh vegetables — including mushrooms, onions, pepper, cherry tomatoes, and squash. They're a delicious way to balance the meal and keep meat portions moderate. Vegetable kabobs can be spiced and basted with nonfat fruit juices and flavored vinegars.

GARDENING

Planting some smart ideas

Experts offer container tips that are sure to grow on you

By Barbara Giasone
North County News

An increasing number of condominium, townhouse and apartment dwellers are rooted in gardening, nurturing a profusion of color once reserved for single-family housing.

The key to doorstep-close vegetables and hanging blossoms is simply container gardening.

From decorative thimbles to giant redwood planter boxes, the selection for housing plants appears unending.

Vince and Leonard Citrano, owners of the Basket Case in Fullerton, have produced a video to demonstrate moss basket making. Elvin McDonald, a garden editor with House Beautiful magazine, shared ideas for a Lilliputian garden in "Little Plants for Small Spaces." And suburban homesteader Jeff Ball discussed vegetable containers in his book, "The Self-Sufficient Suburban Garden."

Moss baskets can be planted to accommodate both sun and shade plants. Most important, the Citranos suggest, regular watering and the application of Osmocote time-release fertilizer capsules will produce healthy blooms.

For full sun baskets, requiring at least three hours of old Sol, the Citranos plant begonias, marigolds, dianthus, ageratum, petunias, lobelia and alyssum. Shade baskets often contain impatiens, fuchsias and baby tears for greenery.

Author McDonald says it's possible to have living, thriving, even flowering plants in dollhouse dishes, caps of toothpaste tubes, bottle lids and in thimbles. The soil in thumb-size containers dries out quickly, so water must be applied with an eyedropper or by immersing the pot until the growing medium and roots are moistened.

To plant thimble-sized containers, put a little sand in the bottom. Use fine-textured soil and every seven to 14 days, apply a few drops of very diluted liquid house plant fertilizer.

Succulents, sweet alyssums and English ivy provide interesting textures.

Containers are ideal for kitchen herbs the family uses regularly, Ball points out. Salad greens and cherry tomatoes also do well.

Moss baskets can be planted to accommodate both sun and shade plants. Most important, regular watering and the application of time-release fertilizer capsules will produce healthy blooms.

But, Ball warns, there are three things to keep in mind when expanding the production system into containers: the size of the container, the weight of the filler container and good drainage.

Never use plain garden soil in a container. It is too heavy and will compact, restrict root growth and hinder drainage. A good mix is one-third compost, one-third vermiculite and one-third soil.

Ball also writes that plant pathologists have noticed there is an increase in plant disease when plastic pots are used. Ideally, containers should be porous to breathe.

Roy Hay, author of "Home and City Gardener," praised container gardening for its use of separate soils. For example, rhododendrons, azaleas, camellias and heathers, which grow well in tubs in the city providing the air isn't too polluted, need acid soil. Others may need a different potting mixture.

The summer flowering period, from early June to the end of September, can produce an array of color. Hay wrote the most popular plants for bedding in tubs, boxes and hanging baskets are geraniums, fuchsias, lobelias, ageratums, petunias and begonias.

The cheapest way of filling a window box for summer is to use hardy annuals sown in situ. And for fairly large containers, the miniature and Butterfly types of gladiolus are suitable.

To give color well into the autumn months, dwarf marigolds and michaelmas daisies are recommended.

Wherever the need, container gardening offers mobility and the promise of providing color in every nook and cranny.

Small wall crack is easy to repair

By John Amantea
King Features Syndicate

Q. I have a minor problem pertaining to my bathroom. One of my children accidentally jammed a toothbrush into the toothbrush holder, and it became wedged in there. I eventually succeeded in removing the brush from the holder, only to break off a chunk of ceramic. I managed to glue the piece back to the holder with a good commercial adhesive, but an unsightly, obviously cracked space remains. The holder can't easily be removed or replaced, because it is ceramic and is adhered to the tiles. Can you suggest anything?

A. You seem to have solved most of your two-piece puzzle already, aside from the existing crack. Since you mentioned that it would be difficult to remove and replace the toothbrush holder, we'll go on from there.

Start this repair by mixing a small amount of plaster or spackle and fill in the space between the crack. You may want to use only your index finger to spread the compound into the crevice. Allow the material to cure (about 24 hours) and then sand smooth with extra-fine sandpaper or steel wool. Wipe the area clean. Now you're ready for the final step. Depending upon the color of your tile, purchase a bottle of food coloring which will most closely match it. Using an ordinary cotton swab, just dip one end into the bottle and apply to the repaired crack. The end result of your efforts will not only be cosmetically appealing, but practical as well.

Q. I recently purchased an old china breakfront from a garage sale. This antique hasn't been used for quite a while. The problem I'm experiencing is hard to open drawers which slide on a track. Do you have any tips on this?

A. Most probably the culprit here is the lack of everyday use you described. However, freeing sticking drawers which travel on wooden guides is fixable.

First, forcibly remove the drawers and check the top edges for any scraped or shiny areas. Sand those spots with a heavy-grit sandpaper and test the condition of the drawers' operation at this point. If more sanding is needed, then do so until the drawer opens and closes with virtual ease. Next, apply ordinary soap or paraffin to the tops and bottoms of the drawers. You should have long-lasting, trouble-free use of your antique for a good while.

installing wire cylinders to keep tomato plants off the ground, prevent rot and improve fruit set; harvest beets, pole beans, cucumbers, carrots and squash when they are young; and put shut off valves on all hoses to conserve water.

Additional June gardening suggestions include setting mower blades higher, feeding houseplants on a monthly basis and spraying apricots with Benomyl or Captan to prevent brown rot in fruit.

Family weeding for togetherness

Having picnics, going to movies and playing Monopoly — these are all activities that are national family pastimes.

But what about weeding together? Yes, weeding, pulling those bothersome, unsightly weeds out of the lawn and garden as a family activity.

Though a family may get dirtier weeding the garden than playing Monopoly, there are many benefits. First, it's great group exercise — kneeling, lifting, stretching, pulling — and by the end of the season, your family will be in better shape than any other in the neighborhood.

Second, it helps the environment when you carefully remove weeds, then prevent them from returning by installing landscape fabric instead of spraying with potentially dangerous chemicals.

Weeds in a flower garden are burdensome but easier to take care of if two or more people work on it together. The first step is to pull all weeds out by hand. The second step is to cover the bed with a landscape fabric such as WeedBlock by Easy Gardener. Landscape fabrics permit air and water to travel through the fabric to the soil, but block sunlight from weed seeds to keep the area weed-free.

For more information on gardening and weed control, send a self-addressed, stamped No. 10 envelope to: Water-Saving Booklet, Easy Gardener, P.O. Box 21025, Waco, Texas. 76702-1025.

Hop goes country

Western bar In Cahoots makes debut June 17

By Lisa O'Neill
North County News

The Hop in Fullerton, once a mecca of twisters, rock 'n' rollers, and polyester-clad movers and shakers, will no longer play vintage rock 'n' roll.

The Beatles will be replaced by Garth Brooks. The Stones will be replaced by George Strait and customers will now wear cowboy boots and 10-gallon hats.

On June 17, The Hop will become In Cahoots, a country-Western bar which will feature free dance lessons every night of the week, said Zen Ziejewski, general manager.

"Basically, country music is the trend America is going to," Ziejewski said.

The Fullerton Hop will be the fifth location of the In Cahoots chain.

People who want to listen to '50s, '60s, and '70s music will be sent to the Lakewood Hop, which will maintain its current format.

Reaction to the change is mixed.

"Fifty percent of the people are welcoming the change, 50 percent are sorry to see it (The Hop) go," Ziejewski said.

This is not the first Hop to go country. The Hop in Fountain Valley, owned by singer Bill Medley and now called Bill Medley's Music City, changed its format to country about a year ago and is now back to playing '50s, '60s and '70s music.

It wasn't a case of not getting a big enough clientele. Rather, "the clientele just didn't drink," said Darlene Martin at Music City's office.

"Country people love to dance and they may not drink as much as a top-40 customer but we've been very successful in the past," Ziejewski said, referring to the chain's other locations in Glendale, San Bernardino, San Diego and Sacramento.

Ziejewski attributes much of country music's popularity to the dancing. Line dances are popular and new ones are constantly being introduced so that it never gets boring. "It keeps it fresh," he said.

Sundays will be family nights at the new In Cahoots. Customers are welcome to bring their children, who will receive free dance lessons. On Fridays, In Cahoots will feature $2.75 steak dinners and on Saturdays, $5.75 steak and lobster dinners will be offered.

Live entertainment also will be featured. The Marshall Tucker Band, Highway 101 and John Michael Montgomery are just a few of the acts that have played at other In Cahoots locations.

Yorba Forum's 'Me and My Girl' is charming show

'Nunsense' is a delight at Curtis Theatre

By Peggy O'Hara
For the North County News

"Me and My Girl" now playing at the Yorba Linda Forum is a deliciously charming musical that recreates British society of the late 1930s.

As the final production of the Yorba Linda Civic Light Opera 1992-93 season, it's being received by enthusiastic and appreciative audiences. Also for the first time since the inception of this organization, producer Virginia deLand appears on stage in a brief, but hilarious role as Mrs. Worthington-Worthington.

Not only is "The Lambeth Walk" sung and performed, but such delightful tunes as "Love Makes the World Go Round," "Leaning on a Lamppost," "Take it on the Chin," and of course the title song keep this upbeat presentation light and bubbly.

Taking place primarily at Hareford Hall, as well as Hampshire Mayfir and Lambeth England, this is a reverse version of George Bernard Shaw's plot that was converted into "My Fair Lady." The "Me" of the title is a cockney bloke named Bill Snibson (Tim Kashni) who must be cultivated into a gentleman by a Duchess (D. D. Calhoun). The "My Girl" is Sally Smith played with verve and amazing vocal and dancing talent by Julie Seaborn.

As the only living descendant of the Earl of Hareford, Bill must be groomed to behave as the properly snooty upper class relatives and executors.

Jennifer Nemirov as Lady Jacqueline Carstone, Brea resident Rob Burton as Parchester, Chris Sands as the Honorable Gerald Bolingbroke and Fredric S. Kerns as Heatherset completely capture the attitudes, movements, voice and disdain of that social elite snobbery.

In the lead role Kashani works well, but is sometimes overshadowed by better performers. Yorba Linda favorites, Calhoun and Ed Wright are nicely matched as the properly mature upper class. Lona Walker, another Orange County favorite, carries off her roles as Pearly Queen, Mrs. Brown and always involved member of the ensemble with her usual vivacity.

Members of the dancing ensemble are terrific. In addition to Burton, they include Mary Sharon Dziedzic, Joshua Eklund, Sarah Ramsey-Duke, Anne Marie Rizza, John Rizza, Marty Silva and Shira Weiss.

Program notes give credit to Lara Teeter for both direction and choreography, which are splendid. But accolades are also due to Tim Klega who was Lara's assistant and took over when Teeter left several days before the musical opened. (It was a commitment made before "Me and My Girl" was cast.) Mitchell Hanlon deserves applause for the fine music direction, Cheryl Constattino and Hilarious! High spirited! Foolish fun that can't be beat. "Nunsense" now playing at the Curtis Theatre in Brea is another winner for the Brea Theatre League.

Even if you saw the splendid productions of this laugh-a-minute musical at either Fullerton Civic Light Opera or La Mirada's Broadway series, you'll have a marvelous evening at this revival.

Blithe and buoyant, the musical features such outrageous songs as "Nunsense is Habit-forming," "The Biggest Ain't the Best," "Turn Up the Spotlight," "Tackle That Temptation Wwith a Time Step" "I Just Want to be a Star" and "Holier Than Thou."

For those unfamiliar with this unlikely song-and-dance romp, "Nunsense" takes place at Mt. Saint Helen's School auditorium on the set of "Grease." Thanks to Brea Civic Light Opera's recent production of that Broadway hit, this show had a ready-made site for the Little Sisters of Hoboken to present their fund-raiser to bury four dead nuns who died of botulism.

Actually the convent chef, Sister Julia (Child of God) inadvertently poisoned 52 nuns with tainted vichyssoise. But there was only enough money to bury 48 because Sister Mary Regina, the beloved reverend mother, purchased a VCR. The four nuns are being kept on "ice" in the convent freezer until enough money is raised to bury them.

Five of the nuns who survived, Rev. Mother Mary Regina (Rachel Miller), Sister Mary Robert Anne (Annette Sanders), Sister Mary Hubert (Denise Vallin), Sister Mary Amnesia (Laurie T. Freed) and Sister Mary Leo (Aimee Boice) are the main characters in this outrageously funny show.

All of these ladies are marvelously talented singers, actors and comedians.

Having Gary Krinke as director, John Vaughn as choreographer, Jo Montelone as creative musical director guarantee this to be a fabulous show.

"Nunsense" continues through June 26. For ticket information, call 990-7722.

It's magic time for children at both Grove Shakespeare and South Coast Repertory Theatre. A new version of an E. T. is the lead player in "The Forgotten Door" at SCR.

Grove Shakespeare offers another wonderful musical, "Dream Street" by Jim Houle who created the marvelous "Cinderella Caterpillar" that thrilled young audiences a few months ago.

"Dream Street" is the new, imaginative musical that tells the story of Max, a young girl confined all of her life to a wheelchair (true of the lead) and her magical transportation to a fantastic world.

All the characters she meets there are singing, dancing automobiles with wheels just like hers. The zany car costumes are wonderful, the actors that race in them brassy and bright.

Lucy Hagan, who plays Max, has always lived in a wheelchair. She has a radiant personality, bright blue eyes, long, blond hair and amazing vocal talent. Directed by Anamarie Garcia, Terry Hastings and Randy Haege, "Dream Street" continues Saturdays at 11 a.m. through July 3.

For tickets to "Dream Street," call 636-7213.

On the Second Stage of the South Coast Repertory Theatre there's an extraordinary extra-terrestrial who falls to earth. He comes from another planet. Although he is dressed very elaborately, he looks just like an ordinary child. But he is hated and hunted on earth by stupid people who fear him because he can read minds and talk with animals.

Relying heavily on sound and music "The Forgotten Door" is also very symbolic and does not always hold the attention of a younger audience. The message at SCR, just as at the Grove, is that it's all right to be different.

"The Forgotten Door" continues only though Saturday at 4 and 7:30 p.m. For tickets, call 957-4033.

July 14 is big day for releases

By Larry Katz
For the North County News

If you can't make it to the theaters, then you may want to try renting a video.

July 14 is going to be a big day for video releases. It will be like Christmas in July. "Lorenzo's Oil" and "The Bodyguard" will certainly heat up your summer. You'll see some of the best of the past year.

Both films were released at Christmas time. "Lorenzo's Oil," based on a true story, tells of the epic struggle of two parents to save their child stricken with a disease that has the medical profession baffled. The key is a courageous performance by Susan Sarandon that earned her an Oscar nomination. Nick Nolte is the husband who also must persevere.

If you want something a little more summer, there's "The Bodyguard." The movie stars Kevin Costner as a professional bodyguard.

FEATURE PROFILE

After a remarkable, record-setting prep career at Valencia High School, Michele Granger went on to the University of California and broke virtually every NCAA Division I pitching record for the Golden Bears. She graduates this year.

Sam Gangwer/
North County News

SIMPLY, THE BEST

Michele Granger may be the best softball pitcher ever

By Rusty Evans
North County News

Michele Granger said as a college softball pitcher she has been "somewhat successful."

That's like saying Wayne Gretzky is an OK hockey player, or that Kareem Abdul-Jabbar could play a little basketball, or that Henry Aaron was somewhat of a power hitter.

Her college playing days at California over, Granger is considered by many the greatest college pitcher ever, just as she is arguably the greatest high school pitcher ever in her days at Valencia High.

So why the element of doubt in her self-appraisal?

"We never won a World Series while I was here," Granger lamented. "I was looking for the program here to keep improving every year. That's what happened in high school. We got better every year. I was disappointed that in college it didn't happen. But a lot of good things happened while I was here."

The list of Granger's accomplishments are astounding. In her four years at Cal, she set NCAA records in career strikeouts (1,640), season strikeouts (484), strikeouts in a game (26), strikeouts in a regulation game (21), career strikeout average per seven innings (9.55) and career shutouts (94).

For Granger, a four-time All-American who also holds 20 of 22 school pitching records, there is only one achievement left: The 1996 Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta.

"I was planning to retire after this season," said Granger, who will graduate from Cal with a double-major in history and mass communications. "I changed my mind when they made softball an official sport for the Olympics in 1996. That's the one thing I haven't done."

Literally.

It's difficult to pick out Granger's most outstanding achievement in college softball, but Cal coach Diane Ninemire has a favorite.

"When she struck out 21 batters against Creighton to set the NCAA record, that was something to see," Ninemire said. "That one game stands out in my mind."

That was on April 22, 1991, in a seven-inning regulation game. She got all of her outs on strikes and missed a perfect game only because she walked two batters.

She also set a single-game strikeout mark with 26 in a 12-inning game against the University of Oregon March 20.

Granger led the nation in strikeouts all four years at Cal, including this spring when she fanned 484 to set an NCAA record. She said it's the accomplishment she is most proud of.

"I think setting the single-season strikeout record was the hardest to do," Granger said. "The pitching rubber was moved back from 40 feet to 43 feet this season and we were playing with the green ball from hell."

The new ball is a green-yellow, day-glo model that is harder than balls of the past. Granger is a pure power pitcher, and said she could throw this ball harder, but the same physics were at work when batters hit the ball.

"When you hit it, it goes through the infield quicker," Granger said. "They wanted more of a possibility of a home run in a game and there were more long balls this year. Plus, with three extra feet, runners should be able to steal more bases. They want to make the game more

COMMENT

Early French exit may be a bad sign

Chang's tennis career at a crossroads

May of 1989 must seem like two decades ago to Michael Chang, even if he likely remembers as if it was only last month.

The former Placentia resident and current world-class tennis player bowed out of the 1993 French Open prematurely, a mere silhouette of the determined 17-year-old that four years ago became the youngest ever to win a Grand Slam tournament, at this same, red-clayed major venue.

Some completely unknown German named Bernd Karbacher, ranked No. 39 now but about 300th in the world earlier this year, dispatched Chang in four sets over two rain-shortened days, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 — the type of match Chang won consistently as recently as last summer.

Back in '89, Chang was still a relative unknown. But he overcame the elements, more physically gifted foes and leg cramps to eventually hoist the winner's trophy atop his head, just five feet, eight inches off the ground.

Who can forget that extraordinary five-set marathon in the semifinals with Ivan Lendl, who was still ranked in the top 3 in the world at that time. Lendl's style and facial expression never changed through nearly six hours of tennis, while Chang encouraged himself to chase down every serve, maneuver under every volley and find time to massage his aching thighs between points.

I, for one, have seen few displays of true grit that compared to Chang's that day.

But now, he appears to be an American star on the decline before really hitting his prime. Some insist he could still become No. 1 in the world someday, and I hope they're right.

He made the US Open semifinals in 1991, stirring the New York faithful in the process by defeating the legendary Jimmy Connors, who had to default in the fifth set of their match after an amazing run through the tournament as an unseeded player.

But overall, Chang hasn't lived up to his tournament seedings.

He has made his living on the pro circuit through determination and endurance. Chang doesn't hit a tennis ball with the voracity of Andre Agassi, the acute accuracy of Jim Courier, or the deft touch of Stefan Edberg. But what he has always been able to do is keep the ball in play. Keep it going until he breaks his opponent mentally.

Of course he's talented, but individual shots have never really been his trademark.

Image, is nothing.

Now, at age 21, he is struggling mightily to ascend to the next echelon. He seems doomed to a professional career of semifinal appearances and the occasional early-round departures, such as what happened last week at Roland Garros.

Who knows whether he will ever be able to take that next step. His serve has improved since '89. So has his net play. Those offensive lobs are murder on the aggressive players. And his return of serve is as good as anyone's since Connors was in his prime.

But with today's plethora of power-hitting behemoths, Michael Chang would seem sentenced to life's equivalent of serving, down a break in the fifth set.

GRANGER: Set numerous college records

exciting, give it more scoring."

Granger said, in all modesty, that for this reason it is likely to be more difficult for those who follow to approach some of the records she set. Still, she doesn't seem to fully appreciate all she's done while at Cal.

"It's great to be recognized as an individual for what I do," she said. "But I do prefer more success team-wise. I just felt that we didn't keep improving. I think the records will mean more to me in a few years."

Cal sports information director Herb Benenson watched Granger compete for the last four years. He said he figured out that this year at 43 feet, she threw the equivalent of a 96 mph fastball in baseball. At the old distance of 40 feet, it was more like a 105 mph fastball. There's also great movement on her riseball to complicate things, but Benenson said it was her drive that made her the best.

"When she's on, she's the best I've ever seen," Benenson said. "She pitches so much and she relishes doing that. She wants every opportunity to go out and prove she's the best. She has that singular purpose: She wants to strike out every batter she faces."

Ninemire said that attitude stems from a vein of perfectionism that runs through Granger.

"She's never happy unless she strikes everyone out," Ninemire said. "An ordinary person would be happy with half of her performance day-in, day-out."

Granger said the arm problems that produced a medical redshirt her freshman year are gone, and she said it was a cumulative injury brought on by mechanical irregularities over the summer months before entering Cal, rather than one that came on all at once.

She said the arm is completely sound and she will play this summer for Commotion, a traveling team based in Los Angeles. She'll be in Orange County July 9-11, playing at a tournament in Buena Park.

Rather than an end to her career, she hopefully looks at the present as a beginning of her Olympic career. She isn't working on any new pitches, but she says there is another 5 mph to be squeezed out of her powerful left arm.

"Speed has been my forte," Granger said. "With me, you know exactly what you're going to get."

And the batters still can't hit it.

North County News

Chris Remala, the El Dorado High senior shortstop, capped his high school career Tuesday by participating in the Orange County High School All Star Baseball Game at Anaheim's Glover Stadium.

Remala started for the North at shortstop in a game the South won, 5-3.

The North was limited to four hits, two by Brea Olinda's Dan Miller. North pitcher Alfredo Garcia of Buena Park, who pitched three hitless innings with five strikeouts, was named the game's most valuable player.

The North-South Orange County All-Star Softball Classic, sponsored by the Soroptimist International of Brea, was played last night at Brea Olinda High School.

On the roster for the North was El Dorado's Traci Vargas.

Sharen Caperton of Brea coached the North in the second annual contest.

CIF STATE GOLF

Valencia's Lee shoots 77 at state tourney

North County News

Valencia High's John Lee established himself among the best high school golfers in the state Monday, firing a respectable 5-over 77 at Bakersfield's Stockdale Country Club at the CIF-Southern California Golf Association State Championships.

Lee, a sophomore, was the runner-up in the Orange League to Western's Tiger Woods. Woods won the CIF Southern Section tournament while Lee finished tied for third.

But Lee represented the Orange League at state as Woods tried and failed to qualify for the U.S. Open last weekend.

FREE 15-PAGE YARD CHARACTER CATALOG #18

Happy 4th of July!

FOURTH-OF-JULY YARD CHARACTER This full-color paper deck depicts Uncle Sam on a rousing rocket ride with red and yellow bombs bursting about him. Instead of time-consuming tracing and painting, the pre-printed color decal is ready to be adhered to plywood, cut out and sealed for weather protection. The scene may be staked into the lawn or a simple stand constructed from a few boards to provide support on hard surfaces. Overall height is 48 inches. (#798 - $12.95)

CRAFT PATTERNS NEW! 1993 PROJECT PLAN CATALOG This new, 108-page catalog pictures over 500 project plan ideas for indoor and outdoor furniture, outdoor structures, playgym and playhouses, rocking horses, toys, doll houses, home improvement, holiday lawn decorations and more! Even if you are a first-time do-it-yourselfer, all of the plans include full-size, traceable patterns for exactly transferring the shape of parts to your material. Most items can be built with hand tools and modest wood-working skills. (#93 - $3.00)

CAR CARE CORNER

THE AUTO TUTOR

Solutions to your car problems from the Automobile Club of Southern California

Question: My 4-cylinder Buick has 70,000 miles on it, and it overheated recently. Besides repairing the problem that caused the overheating, the mechanic also had to replace the head gasket and do a valve job on the car. Now the engine uses one quart of oil with every gas fill up. I think this is excessive. What is wrong? —P.B.

Answer: Providing that the valve job is not defective, an increase in oil consumption after a valve job is not uncommon. A valve job increases manifold vacuum, causing the oil to rise past the piston rings. To solve the problem it is likely that you will have to have the head gasket pulled again and the pistons re-ringed. Also, look for other damage. Since the engine was run at such high temperatures, it is likely there will be more damage.

Question: I recently purchased a new car, and the dealer held a car maintenance class which I attended. The instructor said that the oil level should always be at the full mark and that I should never let it go below this mark. My understanding is that the oil level should preferably be at full, but anywhere between the add and full marks is OK. Is the instructor right or am I? —S.G.

Answer: Providing that the oil is not over the full level or below the add level, you don't have to worry. Adding oil to always maintain the full level won't bring any substantial benefits. When adding oil, the Auto Club reminds that only the oil recommended for a vehicle should be used. Check a car's owner's manual for this information.

Question: I have a 1987 Pontiac Grand Am, and two days ago as I was driving, the oil gauge indicator started to move back and forth. I thought that the engine was losing oil pressure, but then the indicator returned to its normal position. Other than this, the engine is running fine. What's causing this to happen? —R.H.

Answer: The Auto Club recommends checking several areas to be absolutely sure that the engine is not at risk. The problem could be as simple as an inaccurate (or failing) oil pressure gauge, a restriction in the connection to the oil pressure gauge or a weak oil pressure relief valve spring. It could also be that the wire that goes from the oil pressure sending unit to the gauge is grounding or loose. If these things are not causing the problem, have the vehicle checked thoroughly by a qualified auto technician.

Question: Does my 1980 Celica have a timing belt or chain? Also, do I need to get a valve adjustment?

Answer: Toyota Celica models from 1971 to 1985 have timing chains. Starting in 1986, the models have timing belts. Chains have no set amount of time when they should be changed, but belts should be replaced every 60,000 miles. On the 1980 Celica, a valve adjustment is needed every 12 months or 15,000 miles to reduce wear on the camshaft. A worn camshaft reduces performance and increases emissions.

Question: I have a 1972 Ford three-quarter ton pickup truck with a 390 engine and factory air conditioner and heater. The heater core leaks. How do I get this assembly apart to replace the core?

Answer: On your particular vehicle, the heater core is built into the air conditioning unit and is difficult to get apart. The Auto Club recommends taking the truck to a qualified mechanic to make repairs. If you want to attempt the repair, buy a repair manual for the vehicle or get a copy from the local public library. If you buy the manual, be sure it has instructions for the repair you want to make.

Question: I have steel-belted radial tires on my car. How often should they be rotated?

Answer: According to tire manufacturers, steel-belted radial tires should be rotated every 3,000 to 5,000 miles for proper wear and for warranty purposes. For best results it is advisable to do it every 3,000 miles. Also, the rotation pattern may vary among manufacturers. Make sure the proper rotation is made or leave it up to a professional to do it.

Question: I bought a used 1990 Ford Festiva L Plus Automatic. The muffler has a vibrating noise at 50 mph and when I decelerate the car. I had a mechanic adjust the heat shield but the vibration continues. Any suggestion on how to stop the noise and get it fixed?

Answer: A problem like yours is not easy to solve. In your case, it could be one or more of the heat shields along the entire exhaust system, or it could be a crack in the exhaust manifold or on the exhaust pipe where it joins the muffler (possibly the welded joints are slightly cracked causing a rattle). Additionally, the vibration could be related to other parts of the car and not necessarily from the exhaust. We suggest that you have the vehicle thoroughly checked by a competent technician to make sure it is not a problem that affects your safety.

Question: I recently purchased a 1989 Toyota Cressida, and when I went to add more antifreeze, I noticed it was colored red. I have tried to find red antifreeze, but I can't find it anywhere. Is it OK to use green antifreeze, or do you know where I can find red antifreeze? —R.P.

Answer: For many years people have been asking Toyota dealers about their red antifreeze, wondering if it was a special type of coolant. Toyota's red antifreeze is not special. It is red because Japan requires car fluids to be color coded, so when something is leaking, people can tell what it is by its color.

As far as mixing U.S. antifreeze (blue or green colored) with red, the only effect it will have is changing the coolant. Toyota now offers red antifreeze as a generic Toyota part, so if you'd like to use red coolant in your car, visit your local Toyota dealer.

QUESTION: My car has fuel injection and I worried that the oxygenated fuels in California will cause a problem with the injectors. Where can I find non-oxygenated fuel so that my car won't be damaged? —R.P.

ANSWER: Southern California doesn't meet federal clean air standards and, according to the Clean Air Amendment of 1990, gasoline retailers must now sell only oxygenated fuel, which uses the added Ethanol or Methyl Tertiary Butyl Ether (MTBE) to create a more complete combustion of the fuel, during the winter months to help clean the air. The result is a decrease in carbon monoxide emission. The Auto Club is still studying the effects of oxygenated fuel on car engines. However, studies from the state of Colorado, which has required oxygenated fuel during the winter months since 1988, have not indicated any serious engine problems that result from using oxygenated fuel.

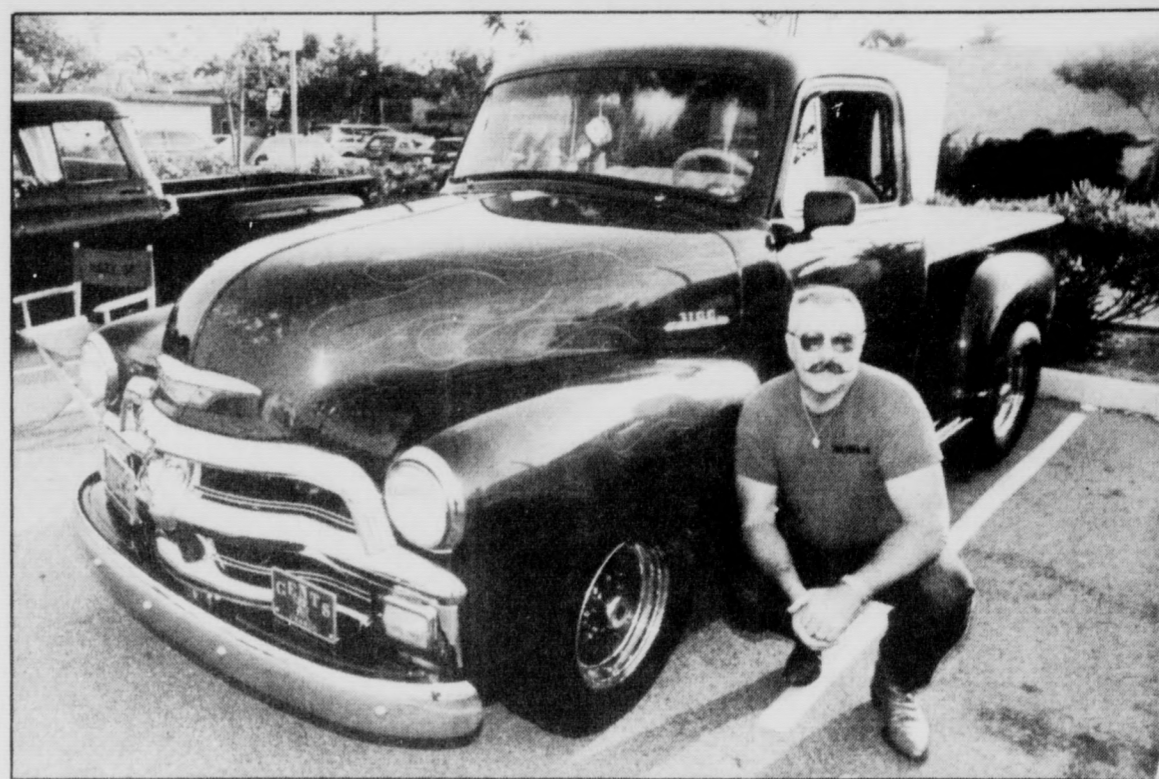

Question: I recently had the transmission rebuilt and a new clutch installed in my Nissan pickup truck. When I step on the clutch pedal I hear a grinding noise and the pedal vibrates.

The shop that did the work won't do anything about it because they claim that it is normal. I told them that it never sounded like that before. They said the truck is old and that's why it makes such noises. Do you think it is normal to have this noise? —A.B.

Answer: It is hard to thoroughly advise you on a noise when we can't listen to it. Nevertheless, after a complete transmission and clutch job is performed, those mechanical systems should sound like new.

Because you mentioned a vibrating pedal, you may have a bad throw-out bearing and/or pressure plate. The Auto Club recommends that you take the truck to another mechanic for a second opinion.

CLASSIC CAR OF THE WEEK

Mike Pilgrim/North County News
Bob and Sherri Bradley are regulars at vintage motor vehicle get togethers in the city of Orange. And why wouldn't they be? Their 1954 Chevrolet half-ton pickup draws a crowd wherever it's at. Painted candy-apple red with orange flame striping, the truck is noticeable when it's driven about town. Bob Bradley, shown with the vehicle, said the pickup is powered by a 350 Chevrolet engine. The interior is Chevrolet stock. The only unusual feature, beyond the impressive painted decor, is that the truck has been lowered by 3 1/2" below its stock level. The Bradley truck can be seen many Tuesday nights in the 300 block of Chapman Avenue where vintage car lovers gather to trade stories — and to show off their latest inventories.

Replacing converter is costly

If your car runs poorly and your mechanic tells you that you need a new catalytic converter, you may be faced with a repair bill of $150 or more. This device, located in the exhaust system, can be damaged by driving too long with misfiring spark plugs, a dirty air filter or other discrepancy.

The purpose of the catalytic converter is to change exhaust pollutants to harmless carbon dioxide and water before they leave the tailpipe.

In modern emission control systems a converter causes chemical reactions to get rid of the three most harmful components of exhaust: unburned hydrocarbons (HC), carbon monoxide (CO) and oxides of nitrogen (NOx).

The catalyst, which causes the process, is a combination of rare and expensive metals. When they are exposed to the unwanted chemicals in the exhaust stream, they become extremely hot. The converter functions like a miniature furnace to clean up the exhaust gases.

This ingenious device can be damaged by overheating due to excess hydrocarbons (unburned gas due to maintenance neglect). It also is vulnerable to lead "poisoning" due to lead in the gas, which is why only unleaded fuel now is the type sold. A damaged converter, which becomes plugged as the overheated catalyst melts, nearly always has to be replaced. The best way to get maximum life from your catalytic converter is to keep your engine running "clean" with regular maintenance and quality fuel.

Coloring your automotive future

By Lyn St. James,
Director of Consumer Relations and National Spokesperson for the Car Care Council and Consumer Adviser to Ford Motor Company.

In one way or another we are all influenced by colors. Colors are strong motivators as well as strong depressants. Reds influence adrenalin flow. Yellows are said to stimulate intellectual thoughts. Blues and darker hues create somber, more reserved feelings. It's no wonder then, auto companies place tremendous importance on the development of new car colors and their impact on consumers.

Ford Motor Company and all other automakers have been developing several new concept colors for the 1995 line of vehicles — colors that are guaranteed to knock your socks off.

In the past, car color preferences and new car colors have fluctuated from the extremely conservative to the exotic. Ford is continually researching those elusive trends so they can deliver the color you want when you want it. Even though identifying trends is not an exact science, one thing we can be sure of is they always will change.

The track record shows they have been doing a good job. Deep jewel green, introduced in 1990 is still so popular it shows no signs of reduced demand. Cayman Green on the Escort GT was an instant success. Iris, introduced on the F-150 Flareside was selling at 50 percent, bright Calypso on the Mustang and Probe boosted sales as did Bimini Blue on the Ranger and Mustang.

In 1990 the Lincoln vehicles introduced "frost" colors a "first" which is a two coat process which has the appearance and quality of a three coat process. In this quest the ingredients and pigments have been changing. Titanium dioxide and other exotic materials are finding their way into colors of today and tomorrow. Soon you will have colors available to you like the show car colors you had hoped for.

Despite the poor economy and the uncertain market, car companies hope this quick response to consumer demand will positively affect sales. In addition, the color palette offered to automotive buyers changes annually — sometimes dramatically. Now that the 1994 and 1995 color palettes have been approved, you can look for complex colors on luxury vehicles and light, bright colors on lower priced vehicles.

The development of new and brighter colors takes many hours of research and is subject to stages of quality and standards testing. One important point to understand is that certain colors will be applied to a particular line of vehicles. For example, we are likely to see the brighter colors on the smaller specialty lines such as the Probe. Experts in the field say the brighter new colors found in today's sporting equipment are having an impact on this segment.

The more sophisticated colors are reserved for mid-size cars like the Taurus. More complex and deeper hues are being used on luxury models like Continental and Town Car.

As we look to the future, especially the near future, additional trends to expect will be reduced demand for traditional black in some vehicle lines and the continuing popularity of greens as they migrate to different hues and shades.

No matter what trends may follow, we certainly will see a more positive and progressive search by car color designers for the most eye-catching colors they can find.

New tax plan may spur investment

The challenged California real estate market may become a primary beneficiary of the president's proposed tax plan. The plan recently passed a House of Representatives vote and is on its way to the Senate.

I report this finding with some trepidation, due to my basic philosophies regarding taxes and real estate.

First, I believe that higher taxes always slow natural economic growth. This opinion is based on the fact that most of us have a finite amount of money to spend and invest. The more we are able to keep, the more we will spend and invest which — in turn — will serve to grow the local economy.

Second, I believe the record run-up in real estate values of the mid-to-late 1980s was too much a result of investor demand, and too little a result of owner-occupant demand.

Investors received sizable tax breaks for passive losses charged against their real estate holdings. The result was that would-be homeowners were forced to compete with investors who were better capitalized and who could afford to pay the higher prices that resulted from the skewed demand.

President Clinton's plan doesn't propose tax breaks for investing in real estate, but it will impose much higher taxes from which many taxpayers will want to shield themselves.

Under current law, an investor can deduct up to $25,000 in passive losses

Patrick Veling's

against income from real estate holdings in any tax year. The proposed plan would allow the same deduction against other sources of income.

The change in the deduction allowance may motivate investors to purchase real estate in order to write off income from other investments. Many investors have disposed of properties in their investment portfolio if their total portfolio losses have been greater than the allowable deduction.

My reactions to this element of the new plan are mixed. I believe motivation to invest in real estate should be based less on passive tax benefits than on the real economic feasibility of the purchase and holding of the investment.

However, with our current market in its continued spiral, an increase in demand — any demand — may be required to recreate an economic foundation on which new values will be established.

On a highly positive note, the plan also calls for more liberal debt restructuring provisions for those owners of distressed investment properties. Under current law, mortgage or debt relief as a result of a lender's write-down of the principal balance is taxable as income to the borrower in the year it is received.

The proposed plan allows taxpayers the option of reducing the basis (the property cost adjusted by improvements and depreciation in order to calculate the taxable gain or loss at sale) by the amount of the discharged debt.

Tax liability will then be satisfied over time through lower depreciation deductions and an eventual greater capital gain at the time of sale. Many owners of distressed investment property have hesitated to negotiate a principal write-down on their mortgage debt because of the tax liability.

This new provision will allow owners to benefit from lender cooperation and delay the payment of taxes until the time of sale, when investors are more likely to have liquid funds for payment of taxes.

The greatest benefit to our marketplace, however, will be the certain reduction in foreclosure activity. Too many investors have walked away from their properties when loan balances exceeded market value. As a result, increasing REO activity has further impacted property values. Distressed owners will now have a viable alternative while remaining on title.

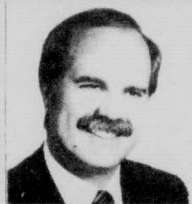

In summary, the new tax plan has an upside for real estate investor-owners that appears to outweigh the downside of increasing personal income taxes which we all must bear. At this point in the local real estate cycle, any relief is welcome.

How can NSR do it?

The NSR Mortgage concept is a throw back to the old "Local Banker" theme. In the old days when you needed a mortgage loan, you went to your local banker for financing. You would sit down with your local banker and by the time you were ready to leave the office you had an answer.

There are no "LOAN COMMITTEES" standing in the way of a decision.

The NSR Mortgage office has three employees, the Manager, the Underwriter, and the Loan Processor. The Manager is the "Local Banker," a highly experienced and professional mortgage banker that has the authority to make underwriting decisions. The best part is, since the overhead is low, the savings are passed down to you in lower points and fees, plus you get an answer before you leave the office. The professional service doesn't end when you walk out the door. Because NSR has a fully automated processing system and by using alternative documents, loans are processed, underwritten and funded in a record amount of time.

Rates as of June 4, 1993. All loans listed are conventional 30/30 for loans below $203,150 except as specified in the "Notes" column. Points are the per cent of the loan balance paid to the lender at the time of loan closing. For fixed-rate loans, borrowers are advised to compare lock-in features; for adjustable programs ask the lenders if the loan has the potential for negative amortization as well as other important factors such as the index, margin, caps, insurance and lock-in. Lender Type is: B = bank; K = mortgage banker; R = mortgage broker; S = savings & loan. Mortgage bankers and brokers are licensed by the California Department of Real Estate as either a broker or corporation. For more information call Calif. DRE at (916) 227-0931.
 All Annual Percentage Rates (A.P.R.) are calculated by Mortgage News Co. based on a $203,150 loan amount, the points as shown and $700 total fees. An A.P.R. is an estimated annual cost of the loan to the borrower, and they are included in this chart for comparison only. When applying for a loan, Federal Truth-in-Lending law requires lenders to calculate an A.P.R. specific to each loan offer. All quotes are not an offer to enter into a loan agreement. All rates are subject to change; verify rates and terms prior to applying for a loan. All lenders charge other fees in addition to those shown, as well as provide loans with different rates and terms for different loan amounts. For a consumer guide on how to shop for a mortgage, send $4.50 check payable to Mortgage News Co., 1505 East 17th St., Suite 211, Santa Ana, CA 92701.
